

ReNew

May/June 2011

C A N A D A

The Infrastructure Renewal Magazine

+ How to Stop
Transmission Systems from Bleeding Power

+ Urban Farms

BIG GAME

Using International Events to Spark City Renewal

ReThink. ReBuild. ReNew.
renewcanada.net

The Case Against Renewables

ELECTION 2011: Which Party Has
the Industry's Vote?

Five Decades and
No End in Sight:
Tunnel Number 3

$9.00

ReNew

CANADA

The Infrastructure Renewal Magazine

MAY/JUNE 2011

FEATURES

- 12 Get in the Game International games like the Olympics and World Cup can be a boon for cities in need of development or renewal. They can also mean a juicy contract for certain lucky companies.
By John Lorinc
- 16 Modern Pastoral The world's population is moving into urban centres—are farmers the next to migrate?
By Mira Shenker
- 24 Here Comes the Sun Does Canada have a bright solar future? A trip to Israel sparks a look at a project happening at home.
By Kerry Freek
- 28 The Long Haul The decades-long project that makes Canada's water woes look like a drop in the bucket.
By Saul Chernos
- 31 From Plant to Plug Getting more buzz for your buck by investing in transmission efficiency.
By Alexander Ginsberg

DEPARTMENTS

- 8 ReThink The construction industry is primed for a strong year, even post-stimulus.
- 18 Re: The Law Uncertainty has stalled offshore wind development in Ontario.
By Adam Chamberlain and Tasha Schmidt
- 22 Panorama Landscape shots of infrastructure development from around the world.
- 38 ReImagine Sudbury's Living with Lakes Centre.
- 39 ReEvents Americana, FCM's Sustainable Communities Conference, Rethink Sustainability, and more.
- 41 ReLocate Jobs gained and lost in the industry.
- 42 Closing Shot Why cities should never be labelled as "dying."
By Todd Latham

FRONT

- 4 Editor's Note Mira Shenker wonders which election promises will be kept.
- 5 Comments Letters, online comments, and tweets from our readers.
- 10 Top 100 White Paper A preview of the funding breakdown that will be found in our report, to be released this spring.

12

16

18

24

28